CLIMBERS’ CODE OF RESPECT

Respect the dangers
- Learn necessary outdoor climbing skills from a guide/mentor
- Learn about the cliff: protection/difficulty/hazards
- Wear a helmet, rocks can break, yell “rock” if rock/gear falls
- Inspect/clean your gear often, replace when worn/expired
- Triple check and back up your systems (harness/knot/belay/rappel/anchor)
- Communicate with your partner and other climbers
- Learn how to detect if fixed gear/bolts are safe

Respect the environment
- Stay on designated trails to lessen impact
- Pack out your trash and pick up after others
- Use existing bathroom facilities or dig a hole, bury it, and pack out toilet paper
- Do not feed or hurt animals
- Place boulder pads/backpack on non-vegetated surfaces
- Do not damage/chip the rock. Brush off your tick marks
- Be aware of seasonal fire bans and follow regulations

Respect others
- Climb in smaller groups. Share climbs with others
- Check if dogs are allowed, keep dogs leashed
- Pull your ropes when finished. Yell “rope” when pulling ropes
- Keep noise levels appropriate, no loud music/profanities
- Respect “right of way” on multi-pitch/shared anchors

Respect climbing access
- Respect land owner rules or provincial/federal regulations
- Do not leave gear unless permitted
- Park considerately, carpool if possible
- Camp only in designated/permitted areas
- Respect area closures (seasonal/permanent)
- Pay required entrance fees/permits
- Follow local regulations for drone use

Educate yourself about outdoor rock climbing ethics, safety considerations and how to lessen your environmental impact at the cliff.

In collaboration with

PLEASE VISIT ROCKRESPECT.CA FOR MORE INFO